BATTLE-SCARRED AUBURN JAIL SILENT

CAPITOL TO SEE GRUNDY IN NEW ROLE

Veteran of Many Tariff Fights Will Be Candidate To Succeed Himself.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12— (INS)— Joseph R. Grundy, more familiarly known as "Uncle Joe," and a prominent figure in a score of tariff fights going back to the Dingles Bill of '97, made his bow to Washington today in a new role —that of senator-desigate from Pennsylvania.

He was appointed to the vacancy which occurred through the senate's refusal to admit William S. Vare, and he not only accepted but announced that he would be a candidate to succeed himself next year for the regular term.

A sharp, but ineffectual, attempt will be made by a small group of senators to keep Grundy out of the senate. Among the ringleaders of the small opposition group is Senator Gerald P. Nye (R) of North Dakota, one of those states which the veteran tariff lobbyist pronounced "a backward state" in his appearance before the Caraway lobby committee.

The opposition may keep the Pennsylvanian from his seat for a few days, but the majority opinion on all sides is that the fight eventually will fail, and that the senate ultimately will seat Grundy by a top-heavy vote. It was estimated today that probably not more than a dozen votes will be cast against his being seated.

Even such a consistent insurgent as Senator Norris (R) of Nebraska, who led the fight to oust Vare, will vote to seat Grundy, although politically the Pennsylvanian stands for about everything that Norris opposes.

Norris said today, however, he saw no grounds upon which Grundy could rightfully be excluded.

"I think the decent people of Pennsylvania should get in this fight and defeat both Grundy and Vare," said Norris.

And Senator Caraway (D), of Arkansas, who gave Grundy such a merciless cross-examination on the witness stand a few weeks ago, and later confessed that he "kind of liked" the veteran lobbyist, declared he saw no reason wh Grundy should not be sworn and seated.

STATES UNCHANGED

"Grundy's status has not changed," said Caraway. "He has maintained an office here to influence and write tariff legislation. The only difference really is that he will move into the senate office building officially. But he may be less effective there than on the outside.

"Pennsylvania is putting a hired man in the senate— yet I believe he should be sworn in just to show how shameless the people of Pennsylvania have become, so fare as the Democrats are concerned, I don't believe we should smite Providence when it is about to smile on you."

As for Senator-Designate Grundy himself, he had this to say:

"I have been appointed by Gov. Fisher as the junior senator from Pennsylvania. I am pleased to accept that appointment, cogniz of the honor it conveys and the responsibilities it imposes.

"In cooperation with our senior senator, the Hon. David A. Reed, and the 36 members of the house from Pennsylvania, I shall give my very best efforts to the interests of the 10,000,000 people of our state, convinced that by so doing I shall be serving the interests of the country as a whole.

"I shall be a candidate for the balance of the unexpired term in the primary next May."

This final paragraph carried with it the virtual announcement of another Republican battel in Pennsylvania which may make the famous primary of 1926 seem like a tame affair, for Vare has already announced that he would be a candidate, and from Atlantic City where he is in retirement brooding bitterly over the senate's refusal to seat him, the Pholidalphia boss last night stated that he would still be a candidate.

GALE ENDS, SHIPPING NORMAL; 500 BRITISH HOMES FLOODED

LONDON, Dec. 12—Shipping in and around the British Isles returned to normal conditions today with cessation of the violent gale which caused nearly 200 deaths and untold damage to property.

Floods throughout low-lying districts of England which followed the torrential rains, however, are still causing suffering and devastation. For a distance of 20 miles outside of London the Thames Valley has been inundated by the rising waters, with hundreds of persons forced to leave their homes.

With the abatement of the rain, it is now hoped the waters will recede before further damage is caused, but it is estimated at least 500 homes have been flooded by the rising rivers.

Hundreds of families have been obliged to take refuge in the upper stories of their homes until the flood waters recede. Coal mines in the Rotherham district have been put out of commission by the flooding of the Don and Dearne rivers.

The grounds of Eton College were flooded to a depth of several feet.

Storm-battered steamers continued to limp into port today. The Italian vessel Leonardo Da Vinci, which carried $70,000,000 worth of art treasures to be exhibited here, arrived safely after a tremendous battle with the storm. Its cargo was found to be intact and unharmed.

Captain Angelo Sturlese, who remained on the bridge of his vessel three days and nights without sleep, told newspapermen he was faced with the most momentous decision of his career while fighting the raging seas.

During every moment of the voyage, he feared his wireless operator would pick up an S. O. S. call from some ship in distress nearby, and that he would have been forced to decide whether to risk his valuable cargo by going to its assistance or to ignore the distress call entirely.

NATIONALISTS TRAP REBELS USING TRICK

Still Hold Canton After Heaviest Battle Since Rebellion Started.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 12—Nationalist forces still held Canton today after defeating the rebels in what was probably the heaviest battle of the present widespread rebellion against the government of General Chiang Kai Shek.

Thousands were reported killed and wounded on both sides in the battle which began Monday when the "Ironsides" wing of the rebel forces made a determined thrust at the Cantonese defenders which brought them within ten miles of Canton.

Hastily summoned Nationalist reinforcements, however, turned the tide of the battle and the rebels were forced to retreat to some distance beyond Sunhai which is 19 miles from Canton.

In retreating, it was reported they lost about 5,000 men in prisoners. The rebel defeat was attributed to a trap set by the Nationalists.

The Ironsides had been advancing from the north of Canton while the Kwangsi rebels advanced from the west. The Nationalist, by first retreating, drew the Ironsides far ahead on the Kwangsi troops and then threw their reinforcements into the resultant gap between the Ironsides and Kwangsi forces, thus partially encircling the former.

With Nationalist attention drawn to the Ironsides, the Kwangsi forces meanwhile made a new encroachment toward Canton by occupying Sanshei, according to reports from Wuchow.

The proximity of the fighting threw many Canton residents into panic. As they saw the hospitals filling up with wounded and realized that the city might fall hourly, many of them fled toward Hong Kong, remembering the looting and incedendiarism which usually follows the fall of a Chinese city.

Nationalist forces also fared well farther north, decisively defeating the rebel forces which were threatening to sweep down the Yangtse valley from Chuchow to Nanking.

Internal conditions in the Nationalist capital, however, were reported to be unsettled, with disorderly elements taking advantage of the absence of many of the troops of the city's garrison at the front. Virtually all foreigners have been evacuated from Nanking.

Realization of the fact that the present rebel activities were something more than sporadic outbursts was brought home to the 60,000 foreigners living here when gendarmes protecting the international settlement were forced to fire over the heads of mobs of Chinese who tried to swarm across the boundary of the settlement from the Chapei district.

It was at first thought that the troops garrioned in the city had rebelled. Rumors that communists were to storm the north railroad station in Chapei resulted in disruption of railway service yesterday.

NO PRISONERS WIN FREEDOM; EIGHT KILLED

Troopers Free Warden, and Guards By Use of Tear Bombs and Bullets.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 12—Grim, brooding silence fell across battle-scarred Auburn Prison today, following yesterday's bloody uprising during which nine were killed— eight convicts and the principal keeper, George A. Dunford, and 11 injured, one of whom was expected to die.

The revolt had been put down. Restrictions within the walls of the great oblong-shaped bastile which houses 1,556 prisoners were tightened. All the convicts and their cells had been thoroughly searched for firearms and weapons of all sorts. Additional emergency guards were on duty, patrolling the tiers of cells, and close watch was being maintained to quell any further incipient outbreaks.

TROOPS GUARD GATES

Outside, before the walls of the gloomy granite structure built 112 years ago, a detachment of National guardsmen and state troopers patrolled all gates and entrances. The public was kept back of established military lines, hundreds of persons impelled by curiosity having rushed to Auburn by motor and train. The army of newspapermen on the ground were informed the prison authorities would confer with them at 10:30 this morning.

Among those in the Auburn City hospital were: Warden Edgar S. Jennings and several guards held with him as hostages during the six-hour battle yesterday during which hundreds of machine gun shots were exchanged between troops and convicts before the latter were finally subdued last evening by tear gas bombs and bullets.

A check up by International News Service this morning revealed the following casualties:

The dead:

George A. Dunford, principal keeper. Shot and killed by convicts at the outbreak of the rioting; Henry Sullivan, a ringleader of the insurrection, a prisoner serving a 21 year "stretch." Shot down by troopers while attempting to escape; Perry Johnson, convict, serving a life sentence. Killed attempting to escape with Sullivan; Alexander Tucholder, a lifer, who acted as a spokesman for the rebels. Shot and killed; Luke J. Bonneil, prisoner serving 30 year sentence. Shot and killed; Steve Pawlak, lifer, who was recaptured after the Auburn outbreak last July. Shot and killed; Steve Sporney, prisoner serving 15 year sentence. Killed in final stage of yesterday's battle; James Dianchasi, prisoner serving 15 years sentence. Shot and killed; Ernest Pavesi, prisoner serving 40 years sentence. Shot and killed.

The injured:

George E. Atkins, guard. Wounded so critically he is expected to die; John Burton, guard. Shot in stomach but expected to recover; J. F. Van Hausen, guard. Slightly wounded; Arthur Holshauser, guard. Beaten by prisoners; Clarence Dempsey, guard. Slightly wounded; Milton Ryther, guard. Wounded but will recover; Max Becker, convict; Earl Udwine, convict; Clarence Scriber, convict; Sergeant E. A. Point, Oneida barracks. Shot in right cheek; Trooper Earl Fogarty. Nose grazed by bullet; Trooper William Stevens. Slightly wounded in forehead.

It was not until darkness descended on the grim prison that the backbone of the rebellion was broken by a volley of shots from troopers, guardsmen and police and the last remnant of the mutineers fell mortally wounded or instantly killed.

They had been driven to a corner in the south wing of the building, and had elected to die rather than surrender.

STARTS AT 11 A. M.

The uprising had started shortly before 11 o'clock in the morning when a company of 50 of the most desperate criminals held within the prison walls was being marched through a corridor on the way to a yard for exercise. They were all men facing long years of penal service, some a whole lifetime, and the majority of them had participated in last summer's revolt and had done months of solitary confinement.

Upon a prearranged signal they

GAS ROBBER BADLY HURT

22-Year-Old Urbana Boy In Hospital After Being Caught In Act.

URBANA, O., Dec. 12— (INS)—Frank Stevenson, 22, was shot and probably fatally wounded early today when he and a companion were interrupted in the alleged act of stealing gasoline from an automobile which was parked in front of the residence of Marshal Samuel Richeson at St. Paris, a small town west of here.

The noise which the two youths made awakened the marshal and he and a relative, Leslie Lykin, crept downstairs. Richeson was armed with a revolver and Lykin carried a shotgun.

They called to the alleged robbers to surrender. Both according to the report, started to flee.

Lykin opened fire and a shotgun charge tore away part of Stevenson's back and side. Stevenson's companion escaped.

The wounded youth was rushed to the county hospital here and physicians there said that it would be only a matter of hours until he died.

Stevenson's companion, according to Marshal Richeson, is believed to be Fritz Barney, 22, formerly of Dayton.

Police are searching for him for questioning.

LOCAL HEALTH AUTHORITIES, STATE MAN, HOLD INSPECTION

Merchants handling foods, meaning pastries and candies of any description, not wrapped, must keep them under cover.

The public is warned against buying meats in any form from street venders unless they are in a clean sanitary condition and must meet with the approval of the Health Department. Its unlawful to expose food products in any manner and this law will be strictly enforced, according to the statement of L. E. Miller, city health commissioner, after joint inspection in Circleville, with a state inspector from the state Food and Dairy Division of which O. J. Bailey is chief.

The inspector was pleased to find the general sanitary condition here very good. The public is again warned to watch the weights of their purchases and to report any shortage to Mr. Miller. The inspector also reported the dairies, milk plants and milk producers are cooperating with the local authorities to comply with the state regulations handling milk and are greatly improved since previous inspections. Tobacco used in any form is strictly forbidden while handling, preparing or serving food products.

Anyone contemplating going into business to handle foods, must notify the Health Department who will inspect the room and building and if found not in good sanitary condition will not be allowed to operate until it passes inspection.

The inspector was high in his praise for the cooperation he has received both from Dr. A. W. Holman, county health commissioner and L. E. Miller, city health commissioner.

GAS ROBBER BADLY HURT

22-Year-Old Urbana Boy In Hospital After Being Caught In Act.

URBANA, O., Dec. 12— (INS) —Frank Stevenson, 22, was shot and probably fatally wounded early today when he and a companion were interrupted in the alleged act of stealing gasoline from an automobile which was parked in front of the residence of Marshal Samuel Richeson at St. Paris, a small town west of here.

The noise which the two youths made awakened the marshal and he and a relative, Leslie Lykin, crept downstairs. Richeson was armed with a revolver and Lykin carried a shotgun.

They called to the alleged robbers to surrender. Both according to the report, started to flee.

Lykin opened fire and a shotgun charge tore away part of Stevenson's back and side. Stevenson's companion escaped.

The wounded youth was rushed to the county hospital here and physicians there said that it would be only a matter of hours until he died.

Stevenson's companion, according to Marshal Richeson, is believed to be Fritz Barney, 22, formerly of Dayton.

Police are searching for him for questioning.

NO PRISONERS WIN FREEDOM; EIGHT KILLED

Troopers Free Warden, and Guards By Use of Tear Bombs and Bullets.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 12—Grim, brooding silence fell across battle-scarred Auburn Prison today, following yesterday's bloody uprising during which nine were killed—eight convicts and the principal keeper, George A. Dunford, and 12 injured, one of whom was expected to die.

The revolt had been put down. Restrictions within the walls of the great oblong-shaped bastile which houses 1,556 prisoners were tightened. All the convicts and their cells had been thoroughly searched for firearms and weapons of all sorts. Additional emergency guards were on duty, patrolling the tiers of cells, and close watch was being maintained to quell any further incipient outbreaks.

TROOPS GUARD GATES

Outside, before the walls of the gloomy granite structure built 112 years ago, a detachment of National guardsmen and state troopers patrolled all gates and entrances. The public was kept back of established military lines, hundreds of persons impelled by curiosity having rushed to Auburn by motor and train. The army of newspapermen on the ground were informed the prison authorities would confer with them at 10:30 this morning.

Among those in the Auburn City hospital were: Warden Edgar S. Jennings and several guards held with him as hostages during the six-hour battle yesterday during which hundreds of shots were exchanged between troops and convicts before the latter were finally subdued last evening by tear gas bombs and bullets.

A check up by International News Service this morning revealed the following casualties:

The dead:

George A. Dunford, principal keeper. Shot and killed by convicts at the outbreak of the rioting; Henry Sullivan, a ringleader of the insurrection, a prisoner serving a 21 year "stretch." Shot down by troopers while attempting to escape; Perry Johnson, convict, serving a life sentence. Killed attempting to escape with Sullivan; Alexander Tucholder, a lifer, who acted as a spokesman for the rebels. Shot and killed; Luke J. Bonnell, prisoner serving 30 year sentence. Shot and killed; Steve Pawlak, lifer, who was recaptured after the Auburn outbreak last July. Shot and killed; Steve Sporney, prisoner serving 15 year sentence. Killed in final stage of yesterday's battle; James Dianchasi, prisoner serving 40 years sentence. Shot and killed; Ernest Pavesi, prisoner serving 40 years sentence. Shot and killed.

The injured:

George E. Atkins, guard. Wounded so critically he is expected to die; John Burton, guard. Shot in stomach but expected to recover; J. F. Van Hausen, guard. Slightly wounded; Arthur Holzhauer, guard. Beaten by prisoners; Clarence Dempsey, guard. Slightly wounded; Milton Ryther, guard. Wounded but will recover; Max Becker, convict; Earl Udwine, convict; Clarence Scriber, convict; Sergeant E. A. Point, Oneida barracks. Shot in right cheek; Trooper Earl Fogarty. Nose grazed by bullet; Trooper William Stevens. Slightly wounded in forehead.

It was not until darkness descended on the grim prison that the backbone of the rebellion was broken by a volley of shots from troopers, guardsmen and police and the last remnant of the mutineers fell mortally wounded or instantly killed.

They had been driven to a corner in the south wing of the building, and had elected to die rather than surrender.

STARTS AT 11 A. M.

The uprising had started shortly before 11 o'clock in the morning when a company of 50 of the most desperate criminals held within the prison walls was being marched through a corridor on the way to a yard for exercise. They were all men facing long years of penal service, some a whole lifetime, and the majority of them had participated in last summer's revolt and had done months of solitary confinement.

Upon a prearranged signal they

Letters To Editor

Circleville, Ohio,
Dec. 11, 1929.

Dear Editor:—

I read a letter in The Herald pertaining to the Christmas vacation which is being allowed the students, this year. I think of all the "dumb" decisions of the Board to decide a vacation, this takes the cake.

The boys and girls will be out of school New Year's Day. This is Wednesday but they will be compelled to attend school the Monday and Tuesday before and the Thursday and Friday after.

I am sure none of the students or children can understand the decision of the Board.

Another meeting of the board will be held Tuesday, Dec. 17, and I would suggest that they give this fixed decision re-consideration.

Sincerely,

A Parent.

The past season has been exceptionally favorable for the production of clover seed and the crop in the United States will be about double that of last year and of the average for the past five years.

NO PRISONERS WIN FREEDOM, EIGHT KILLED

seized their guards, and took their weapons from them. The principal keeper, Durnford, quickly learned of the incipient rebellion and dashed along a corridor toward the mutineers. As he came down the steps leading to the exercise yard one of the convicts who had seized a pistol from a guard, shot him down, and he died shortly after he was taken to a hospital.

One by one other guards came around corridors, or down stairways, and they were promptly corraled by the convicts. They were told that if they uttered a sound, or made a false move they would be "plugged."

Warden Jennings meanwhile chanced to pass through a wing of the building. He was on a customary daily tour of inspection. Suddenly a convict stepped out and shoved a pistol into his stomach.

"If you move, I'll shoot," said the convict, quietly, "come with me, warden. We want you to accompany us to the punishment gallery. You will have to 'cover us.' If you don't we're going to snuff you out."

Two other convicts, both of whom had obtained arms, came up alongside of the warden and the trio marched him to the punishment gallery. There the warden was handcuffed to one of the guards who had been seized. Six or seven guards had been corraled by the mutineers.

Guards were forced to open cell doors and release other prisoners.

Warden Jennings was told he would have to instruct the men "out in front" to let the convicts out of the prison, unmolested, or he would be slain. Convict Sullivan, one of the ringleaders, told him, if they didn't get their freedom "all of us will die together for we are determined to escape or die in the attempt and you'll die with us."

SCRIBBLE NOTE

They scribbled a note, instructed the warden to sign it, but he refused. Had it not been for a priest who defiantly walked to where he was being held and counselled the convicts the warden might have been shot then and there. For hours the warden was held hostage until he was finally rescued by troops under a barrage of tear gas bombs and bullets.

This morning the gray prison was silent, but it showed the aftermath of yesterday's bloody siege. Sawdust covered the blood splotched corridors of the south wing of the prison, to which section the convicts had been herded in the final stages of the battle. Cells in this section were riddled with bullets.

Homer Thompson, confidential clerk at the prison, stated there was no likelihood of another flareup. The convicts, in their cells, guarded more closely than ever, were grim and silent.

seized their guards, and took their weapons from them. The principal keeper, Durnford, quickly learned of the incipient rebellion and dashed along a corridor toward the mutineers. As he came down the steps leading to the exercise yard one of the convicts who had seized a pistol from a guard, shot him down, and he died shortly after he was taken to a hospital.

One by one other guards came around corridors, or down stairways, and they were promptly corraled by the convicts. They were told that if they uttered a sound, or made a false move they would be "plugged."

Warden Jennings meanwhile chanced to pass through a wing of the building. He was on a customary daily tour of inspection. Suddenly a convict stepped out and shoved a pistol into his stomach.

"If you move, I'll shoot," said the convict, quietly, "come with me, warden. We want you to accompany us to the punishment gallery. You will have to 'cover us.' If you don't we're going to snuff you out."

Two other convicts, both of whom had obtained arms, came up alongside of the warden and the trio marched him to the punishment gallery. There the warden was handcuffed to one of the guards who had been seized. Six or seven guards had been corraled by the mutineers.

Guards were forced to open cell doors and release other prisoners.

Warden Jennings was told he would have to instruct the men "out in front" to let the convicts out of the prison, unmolested, or he would be slain. Convict Sullivan, one of the ringleaders, told him, if they didn't get their freedom "all of us will die together for we are determined to escape or die in the attempt and you'll die with us."

SCRIBBLE NOTE

They scribbled a note, instructed the warden to sign it, but he refused. Had it not been for a priest who defiantly walked to where he was being held and counselled the convicts the warden might have been shot then and there. For hours the warden was held hostage until he was finally rescued by troops under a barrage of tear gas bombs and bullets.

This morning the gray prison was silent, but it showed the aftermath of yesterday's bloody siege. Sawdust covered the blood splotched corridors of the south wing of the prison, to which section the convicts had been herded in the final stages of the battle. Cells in this section were riddled with bullets.

Homer Thompson, confidential clerk at the prison, stated there was no likelihood of another flareup. The convicts, in their cells, guarded more closely than ever, were grim and silent.

PEOPLE ARE BUYING

November, a lot of people thought, was going to be a very poor month for business. Nobody had any money after the stock market collapse Or if anybody had money, he wasn't going to spend it.

Well, somebody must have been buying. Sears, Roebuck and company's sales during the month of November were 21.2 per cent greater than in the same month of last year. And there's nothing local about it. That firm has quite a spread.

A retail trade survey made in nearly 50 cities by a big New York bank, covering 157 department stores, shows 82 of them reporting increased sales over the same period last year, 22 reporting no change and 53 reporting a decrease. There is a net increase for the whole group.

These figures speak for themselves. The Christmas trade, too, which many merchants were so doubtful about, is beginning to speak for itself.

FUTILE MONOPOLY

"Domestic purchasing agents," meaning housekeepers, may have noticed that coffee by the pound is cheaper lately. Here and there it is cheaper in restaurants too, by the cup.

Why? Because the bottom has fallen out of the coffee market in Brazil, which means virtually the world market. A few weeks ago the Brazilian government's determined effort to stabilize prices by controlling output failed utterly, and the price of raw coffee has fallen one-half.

It is the same sort of failure that has been conspicuous in rubber and certain other commodities. Governments may be powerful, and corporations more so, but neither seems able to set aside the good old economic law of supply and demand very long in the case of any widely used commodity. The consumer has his troubles but nature herself seems to be on his side.

SHIP-TO-SHORE TELEPHONES

The telephone service opened the other day between the Leviathan at sea and various cities in the United States marks the inauguration of ship-to-shore commercial telephony. Other ocean liners soon will be equipped for such service Eventually, no doubt, all ships will have it.

The contact was made by radio, the voices being broadcast on a shore wave length from Bell system's transmitting station at Deal Beach, N. J., and a specially built radio telephone transmitting and receiving apparatus on the Leviathan

In addition to the calls between telephone company officials and Capt. Cunningham, five commercial calls were made in three hours.

Some of these days, perhaps, we will carry radio telephone apparatus in our coat pockets and will be able to call people anywhere from anywhere. That will make it pretty hard to evade a telephone call one doesn't care to get, but it should be a tremendous convenience otherwise.

"The Masked Hostess"

by BLAIR STEVENSON

CHAPTER XXIX.

NATHALIE had fled back to her suite and locked herself behind the steel door which guarded the entrance to it when Ferris, who had not known that she had looked down and seen him, glanced warily to the top of the stairs where she had been and said to Stefano.

"Any objection to taking me into the dining room with you, Captain? I could do with a bite of breakfast."

"Absolutely not. Charmed to sit and chat with you a bit. "As I've said, I've learned the name of the lawyer you're so keen to know" Stefano was entirely ready to communicate Sloan's name. By the time Ferris saw Sloan, Sloan would be "in the know" through Monty Delaine, and Nathalie's interests entirely safe. Ferris could have the name and welcome—after he had paid Stefano ten thousand dollars for it

"I heard you say it," Ferris informed him as he walked into the high ceilinged room into which Stefano directed him. He had the air of entire proprietorship and addressed Stefano's butler as though there was no question of the authority he had.

"Bacon and eggs, Niccolo. And make it snappy Wop. And then get your crew the hell out of here. But you stick around."

"I say what's this?" demanded Stefano sharply. "Who told you the man's name—or agreed that you could give him orders?"

Ferris looked at him craftily and then laughed in his face

"He took them, didn't he? I guess that's the answer Who do you think hand picked the crew that's been working for you?"

"And there they go out. On their way."

"So now I guess we can get down to talking business," observed Ferris, while the butler, who had brought his breakfast, walked to the end of the room but didn't go out of it. "You've found out a lawyer's name. And I'm to slip you ten grand for it Is that the play as you figure it's coming off?"

"To a hair," replied Stefano, and looked him quietly between the eyes "You're to pay it and I'm to receive it. When I tell you the lawyer's name, but not before."

Ferris looked at him with hate

"But you threw a wine party last night, didn't you? Is that supposed to go into the expense account?"

"Certainly not. That was a friend's generosity. Every bottle of it gratis. No, that won't be tabulated in the account."

"I'm glad to hear it," retorted Ferris calmly. "So your friend's generous is he? He didn't size up like a very big hearted guy to me But I guess as a business man he knows his onions."

"Who the devil are you talking about?" demanded Stefano, wondering suddenly if Ferris knew Monty was the donor of the champagne

"Pound I ain't wrong, am I? I guess I know when I've been sold out and double crossed. What about it?"

"Pound?" and Stefano looked at him disgustedly and wearily. "I never saw Pound but once. The day I signed a lease with him. Yes I did, too. Once afterward when I spoke to him about an account with his bank for a friend. Notice, don't you, that I don't regard you as worth lying to?"

"Yes," Ferris answered imperturbably. "I notice every little thing. My clockers watched you go in and out that day."

"Oh I dare say. But not that I care a curse." Stefano's tone was careless and taunting for he was losing patience very fast. "Who else did they see there who was specially interesting?"

Ferris sat gazing at him briefly, his eyes hard as flints. Then he said:

"She's upstairs!"

"Who's upstairs?"

Stefano's taunting manner did not change as he put the question. But as he spoke all interest left him concerning the ten thousand dollars he had hoped to receive, and he thought only of Nathalie.

"Keep them where they are, Captain—I'm on my way out," said Ferris.

When Ferris spoke again he resolved that, come what might, he would not leave the house while Ferris was in it or until he was certain beyond peradventure that Nathalie was securely out of it.

"Who's upstairs did you say Captain?" said Ferris presently, his eyes drilling Stefano's hard "So you want the name and all eh" All right. Nathalie Van Slaack's upstairs."

"Sure of it?" asked Stefano, as though it was of no importance."

"Dead sure," announced Ferris. "I suppose you'd like it if I took a walk up"

"I fancy it'd be just as well not for you to attempt to." Stefano answered him at once: "I'm certain it wouldn't in point of fact."

He meant only that if Ferris made any attempt to force himself on Nathalie he would lean at him and beat him to the floor But Ferris misunderstood all men like Stefano He nodded

"That's good enough for me. I ain't trying it after last night But I seen her with the make up off even if I did nearly eat a bullet."

This meant nothing at all to Stefano He had no idea in the world that anyone had watched Nathalie from a tree and that she had been courageous enough to shoot at him.

He got up hurriedly as Stefano leaned back in his chair and put both hands into the pockets of his motor coat

"Keep 'em where they are Captain," said Ferris, shakily "I'm on my way out. And listen. I give you credit for something You were a clever fella when you had the steel door put in and didn't slip me no duplicate key I ought to have suspected then that you was going to sell out to Pound but I was dumb. I think I'll take a walk over to Brookville. So long."

As he left, Stefano saw the eyes of Niccolo, the spurious butler, answer the eyes of Ferris in a secret signal and it dawned on him that Niccolo was was still in the long room was on guard over him and certainly armed. Niccolo's hands were in easy sight with nothing in them, so Stefano said nothing to him until he saw Ferris reach the open door at the end of the hall and go out of the house Then he said.

"Niccolo."

"Si, Signor."

"You were present one night," Stefano reminded him pleasantly and in Italian, "right in this room when a lady was diverted as she watched me at target practise?"

"Si, Signor," acknowledged Niccolo, and remembered vividly the night Stefano had shot at a candle the full length of the house and snuffed it out. A shiver went through him

"That same admirable weapon," Stefano assured him, "is in one of the pockets of my motor coat while we talk so agreeably. Which pocket, Niccolo?"

Stefano was not armed But Niccolo made a great out of a chair and sat quietly in a chair with his hands on the arms of it and kept them there

He did not alter their position for two hours. Nor did Stefano move at all until a sudden half muffled commotion somewhere in the grounds surrounding The Firs caused him to spring to his feet

DR. COPELAND SAYS—

Good Health Acquired

It Is Not Bestowed Upon Us, Says Authority, Urging the Observance of Hygienic Rules

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

IN A SENSE, health is something that is acquired Are you doing what you should to give yourself health, vigor and length of days?

A man's surroundings and daily walk have much to do with his length of days. They have much to do with his health, too. Even country life has its hazards. Rural dwellers, like the rest of mankind, are very likely to neglect their teeth, their eyes and ears, and fail to do many of the things which in the city are common practices. The city boards of health and other similar agencies are constantly teaching what to do for the improvement of health.

DR COPELAND

Strange as it may seem, the prospect of long life in the country is less than it is in the modern city. But of course you are not in a safe place merely because you live in a city. Health and long life are not bestowed upon men. They must be acquired by the observance of certain simple rules

The rural dweller has to fight against certain condition of his life. So, too, must the city dweller give attention to a number of things if he is to prosper physically. He must fight against certain tendencies which are truly urban.

To begin with let us consider the question of transportation The country man walks a lot He knows why Nature gave him his feet The city man rides too much. He does not have the refreshing, life giving exercise essential to health and length of days

I venture to say there are men in every city who take a taxicab to cover the dozen blocks between the office and the club building They are going to the club to exercise in the gymnasium but they ride in a taxicab rather than take the out-of-doors exercise which the walk would give them

After he has exercised at the club he orders a big meal or a generous lunch. There is danger in the fact that the food is so good It leads to the temptation of over eating

Over eating and under exercising are the faults of the city man Every city dweller and everybody in the world for that matter should bear in mind the importance of hygienic living If we do this we should become conspicuous examples of a superior physical type We can be that when we live as we should

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

The First National screen version of "The Great Divide," known as "The great American drama," has been booked by the Cliftona theatre and will open Thursday with Dorothy Mackaill in the featured role.

"The Great Divide," as a play, ran for many years and broke box office records throughout this country and in Europe.

In the screen version, Miss Mackaill portrays an emancipated, cocktail-imbibing modern girl, the type of role in which she has had such success in her recent pictures. She has an opportunity for splendid dramatic work when she is kidnapped by the man she both loves and hates, and is brought out into the silent desert of Arizona. The Vitaphone talking scenes amid this beautiful country are a feature of the picture.

Ian Keith portrays the role of the Westerner, made famous on the stage by Henry Miller.

AT THE GRAND

Paul Brown and his Rotary players are again booked for an exhibition at the Grand theatre Thursday evening when they will put on a program of music and vaudeville.

The regular picture program is also listed in Thursday's program.

AT THE MET

Taking a melodramatic premise and turning it into humor is no new trick for Harold Lloyd. Yet never before has he done it with the finesse he exhibits in his latest picture "Welcome Danger" at the Met theatre this week, his first picture in a year and a half.

"Welcome Danger," relates a story, that with but a few twists, could have been developed into a thriller of the first water. Lloyd retains the thrill elements, the mystery and the romance but adds laugh after laugh to the story by little twists of his own.

"Welcome Danger" relates the experiences of a boy whose avocation is botany and who suddenly finds himself a detective in underground Chinatown trying to outwit wily Chinamen who have baffled the police of San Francisco. Lloyd Portrays the son of a famous Golden Gate police officer, who passes on, assuming he has left the world a legacy in the form of a great law-enforcing son. Harold prefers toying with flowers to swinging blackjacks and guns, but when his father's old friends call on him for assistance, he readily assents with result that are highly humorous for the audience

AT THE CLIFTONA

The First National screen version of "The Great Divide," known as "The great American drama," has been booked by the Cliftona theatre and will open Thursday with Dorothy Mackaill in the featured role.

"The Great Divide," as a play, ran for many years and broke box office records throughout this country and in Europe.

In the screen version, Miss Mackaill portrays an emancipated, cocktail-imbibing modern girl, the type of role in which she has had such success in her recent pictures. She has an opportunity for splendid dramatic work when she is kidnapped by the man she both loves and hates, and is brought out into the silent desert of Arizona. The Vitaphone talking scenes amid this beautiful country are a feature of the picture.

Ian Keith portrays the role of the Westerner, made famous on the stage by Henry Miller.

AT THE GRAND

Paul Brown and his Rotary players are again booked for an exhibition at the Grand theatre Thursday evening when they will put on a program of music and vaudeville.

The regular picture program is also listed in Thursday's program.

AT THE MET

Taking a melodramatic premise and turning it into humor is no new trick for Harold Lloyd. Yet never before has he done it with the finesse he exhibits in his latest picture "Welcome Danger" at the Met theatre this week, his first picture in a year and a half.

"Welcome Danger," relates a story, that with but a few twists, could have been developed into a thriller of the first water. Lloyd retains the thrill elements, the mystery and the romance but adds laugh after laugh to the story by little twists of his own.

"Welcome Danger" relates the experiences of a boy whose avocation is botany and who suddenly finds himself a detective in underground Chinatown trying to outwit wily Chinamen who have baffled the police of San Francisco. Lloyd Portrays the son of a famous Golden Gate police officer, who passes on, assuming he has left the world a legacy in the form of a great law-enforcing son. Harold prefers toying with flowers to swinging blackjacks and guns, but when his father's old friends call on him for assistance, he readily assents with result that are highly humorous for the audience.

Medical Pioneer

George Bodington, an English physician, initiated the open-air treatment of tuberculosis in 1833. This treatment is so familiar today that it is difficult to realize that in Bodington's time tuberculosis was being treated by bleeding, cupping and leeching, blistering plasters, emetics, tar vapor, chlorine and fuming nitric acid inhalations. —Hygeia Magazine.

CLUB AFTER THIRD VICTORY AGAINST EAGLES OF LONDON

C. A. C. against London Eagles. Grants Flying Clouds against Lutheran Brotherhood.

That's the lineup of the basketball contests at the Club gymnasium this evening when one of the best evenings of basketball of the season is on the schedule. The Club will be out there showing their class in an endeavor to add scalp number three to their fast growing string of victories when they tackle this Eagle organization hailing from London.

The Eagles will undoubtedly give the C. A. C. a bigger battle for the victory than either of the Clubs other opponents have so far this season.

Monte Beaver and his Newark tossers were the first bunch of hard court battlers who invaded the local gymnasium with an idea of victory, but when this bunch of basketball hounds Joe Lynch has under his wing, got started, it was too bad for Monte Beavers team.

Then came the Washington C. H. and A. & P. Grocers with an idea that they could finish on the long end of the count. They if the count would have been taken upside down.

The Grocers scored one field goal in each of the first three periods, and only when the Club started loafing in the final period did they bring their total to 16 counters. The Club using a number of different combinations scored 43 points.

LINE-UP UNCERTAIN

No one except Coach Joe Lynch knows who is going to start the contest this evening. And it is highly possible that Lynch himself doesn't know.

He has Steele, Gordon and White for forwards and either is capable of showing real class. Then there are Wallace and Parks for the bat off job. Robinson, Merriman and Courtright are the guards.

The preliminary which is expected to draw nearly as many persons to the gate as the big game itself will see the Lutheran Brotherhood team on the floor for the first time against Sam Grants fast Flying Clouds.

The Brotherhood has a good bunch of athletes led by Marvin Rhoades and George Troutman and with their band of followers will make things quite interesting for the Grantmen before the evening is far advanced.

Harley Pierce, football coach at Columbus South high school, will officiate the big game.

HIGH TOSSERS TO MARYSVILLE

Red and Black Wallop Modern Woodmen In Practice Tilt--Marysville Fast

Coach J. M. Guthries' High school quintet defeated the Modern Woodmen Wednesday evening by a score of 34 to 12, in a practice tilt. Wilson and Davis chalked up 10 points each for the Tigers, with Russell running close second with eight points. Smith starred for the Woodmen, by scoring seven points.

The Red and Black bucket shooters took an early lead and held it throughout the entire contest. The Woodmen found the Tiger defense solid, and not once in the game was a point scored by the Woodmen after the defense was set. Wilson's points were scored by long shots, while Davis and Russell scored theirs by botn long and short shots.

Friday the Circleville tossers will journey to Marysvile to meet Coach Kingman's quintet led by Capt. Lee McMahon. This game will be played at the State Armory. The Marysville squad has had but little practice, all of the players being on the football squad, which played its last game Thanksgiving day. McMahon is the only regular from last season.

The Circleville cage machine is clicking properly and all of the boys are in great shape.

Every one is looking forward to this game, due to the fact that the Circleville lads are determined to even up things for a previous defeat in football.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Editor, Circleville Herald,
Circleville, Ohio.

Sir:—

I have been informed that the Board of Education of our City Schools has taken action in regard to the Christmas vacation and has decided that vacation shall start with the closing of school on Friday, Dec. 20th and open again on Monday, Dec. 30th for just two days and then close again for the New Year's Day and open again on Thursday, the 2nd of January.

I have always been a resident of Circleville but I have never known a Board of Education to issue an order to hold school between Christmas and New Years and I personally think this a great injustice to our teaching force and also to the pupils enrolled.

For instance if the teachers and pupils close relatives live away from Circleville, as no doubt a great many do, they would like to spend the vacation with them, but they must return for the opening of school on Monday, Dec. 30th.

The subject of sickness and also the cost of keeping a school in operation during the winter season has been touched upon in a letter I read in your columns, but this should also be considered in fixing the vacation time.

I trust there is still time for the board to reconsider their action and at this season of giving that they may consider the very worthy teachers as well as the families of pupils who would like to enjoy the Christmas vacation as they always have, uninterrupted by an order of our Board of Education.

Mr. Editor, I am very glad that the order mentioned above does not affect you personally, and I wish you the fullest measure of Joy and Pleasure during the coming Christmas season and may the New Year have all Happiness and Good Luck

Yours very truly,

A Parent.

SEARCH FOR GIRL

BARNESVILLE, O., Dec. 12.—Barnesville, Belmont and Cambridge fire departments rushed to Fairview, near here, today to extinguish a blaze with destroyed the Dunham Arnold home, a former hotel. Damage totalled $25,000. Several adjoining buildings were threatened.

FACE DAMAGE SUIT

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—Mrs. Henry H. Rogers, the former Mrs. Basil Miles, and her cousins, Count and Countess Andrew Zichy, are the defnedants in a $750,000 damage suit on file today in the supreme court. The complainant, Edward E. Kern, former secretary to Colonel Henry H. Rogers, charges the defendants maliciously worked a conspiracy resulting in his discharge from the oil millionaire's employ.

Why Fat Men Stay Fat

"The trouble with me, and I guess this applies to 99% of the men who are putting on weight, I didn't have the energy or "pep" to keep it off. Lost all interest in my healthy activity and just lazed around accumulating the old pounds until I got that "Kruschen feeling."

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do— they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

As a result instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every free moment and letting flabby fat accumulate you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition

Then watch the pounds slideoff! Kruschen Salts are the up-to-date Fountain of Youth. Take one half teaspoonful in a glass of hot or cold water tomorrow morning, and every morning— and if they don't change your whole idea about reducing go back and get the small price you paid for them. Get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts lasts 4 weeks—at Hamilton & Ryan's or any progressive druggist anywhere in the world

It's the Little Daily Dose that does it.

HOYT'S COMPOUND WHAT I NEEDED

LANCASTER MAN CALLS IT A "WONDER REMEDY"—A KIDNEY AFFLICTION

Mr. Edward Pfadt, 126 Zane Avenue, Lancaster, is another LIFE LONG resident of this vicinity to endorse Hoyt's Compound PUBLICLY. He states:

"My kidneys have been in a terribly deranged condition for a long time and sharp cutting pains would shoot across my back," said Mr. Pfadt "Night rising was a common ailment to me and I was troubled with constipation too and always had to be taking the strongest of PHYSICS in order to get temporary relief from this bowel affliction. It seemed that I just couldn't get to feeling right no matter how much medicine I took and finally my work grew to be a great burden to me and I made up my mind to try Hoyt's in one last effort to regain my health. It proved successful for I had hardly taken one b ottle when I noticed a difference and now my general physical condition is much improved and I am enjoying the best health of recent years. I am sure that anyone who gives Hoyt's fair trial will be rewarded with new and better health."

Hoyt's Compound is sold in Circleville at Wilder's Pharmacy and by all the leading druggists in surrounding towns.

CLUB AFTER THIRD VICTORY AGAINST EAGLES OF LONDON

C. A. C. against London Eagles. Grants Flying Clouds against Lutheran Brotherhood.

That's the lineup of the basketball contests at the Club gymnasium this evening when one of the best evenings of basketball of the season is on the schedule. The Club will be out there showing their class in an endeavor to add scalp number three to their fast growing string of victories when they tackle this Eagle organization hailing from London.

The Eagles will undoubtedly give the C. A. C. a bigger battle for the victory than either of the Clubs other opponents have so far this season.

Monte Beaver and his Newark tossers were the first bunch of hard court battlers who invaded the local gymnasium with an idea of victory, but when this bunch of basketball hounds Joe Lynch has under his wing, got started, it was too bad for Monte Beavers team.

Then came the Washington C. H. and A. & P. Grocers with an idea that they could finish on the long end of the count. They if the count would have been taken upside down.

The Grocers scored one field goal in each of the first three periods, and only when the Club started loafing in the final period did they bring their total to 16 counters. The Club using a number of different combinations scored 43 points.

LINE-UP UNCERTAIN

No one except Coach Joe Lynch knows who is going to start the contest this evening. And it is highly possible that Lynch himself doesn't know.

He has Steele, Gordon and White for forwards and either is capable of showing real class. Then there are Wallace and Parks for the bat off job. Robinson, Merriman and Courtright are the guards.

The preliminary which is expected to draw nearly as many persons to the gate as the big game itself will see the Lutheran Brotherhood team on the floor for the first time against Sam Grants fast Flying Clouds.

The Brotherhood has a good bunch of athletes led by Marvin Rhoades and George Troutman and with their band of followers will make things quite interesting for the Grantmen before the evening is far advanced.

Harley Pierce, football coach at Columbus South high school, will officiate the big game.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

INDUSTRIAL MAGNATES MEET PRESIDENT

Nothing can stop the onward march of the United States. Business is good and bids fair to continue. This has been manifest by the magnates of the business world who called at the White House to confer with President Hoover and their fellow magnates to advance the nation's prosperity. Above is pictured a representative group of men, leaders in the business affairs of our country. (Left to right)—Will Hays, Czar of the American Picture Industry; Assistant Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont; Julius H. Barnes, Chairman of the Board of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Louis F. Swift, President of Swift & Co.; President Herbert Hoover. (Below)—Charles J. Webb, of Philadelphia, representing large textile interests; W. W. Atterbury, railroad magnate, and W. A. Edgerton, of Wilson, N. C., representing the Portland Cement Company.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Editor, Circleville Herald,
Circleville, Ohio.
Sir:—

I have been informed that the Board of Education of our City Schools has taken action in regard to the Christmas vacation and has decided that vacation shall start with the closing of school on Friday, Dec. 20th and open again on Monday, Dec. 30th for just two days and then close again for the New Year's Day and open again on Thursday, the 2nd, of January.

I have always been a resident of Circleville but I have never known a Board of Education to issue an order to hold school between Christmas and New Years and I personally think this a great injustice to our teaching force and also to the pupils enrolled.

For instance if the teachers and pupils close relatives live away from Circleville, as no doubt a great many do, they would like to spend the vacation with them, but they must return for the opening of school on Monday, Dec. 30th.

The subject of sickness and also the cost of keeping a school in operation during the winter season has been touched upon in a letter I read in your columns, but this should also be considered in fixing the vacation time.

I trust there is still time for the board to reconsider their action and at this season of giving that they may consider the very worthy teachers as well as the families of pupils who would like to enjoy the Christmas vacation as they always have, uninterrupted by an order of our Board of Education.

Mr. Editor, I am very glad that the order mentioned above does not affect you personally, and I wish you the fullest measure of Joy and Pleasure during the coming Christmas season and may the New Year have all Happiness and Good Luck.

Yours very truly,

A Parent.

$25,000 FIRE DAMAGE

BARNESVILLE, O., Dec. 12.—Barnesville, Belmont and Cambridge fire departments rushed to Fairview, near here, today to extinguish a blaze with destroyed the Dunham Arnold home, a former hotel. Damage totalled $25,000. Several adjoining buildings were threatened.

FACE DAMAGE SUIT

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—Mrs. Henry H. Rogers, the former Mrs. Basil Miles, and her cousins, Count and Countess Andrew Zichy, are the defnedants in a $750,000 damage suit on file today in the supreme court. The complainant, Edward E. Kern, former secretary to Colonel Henry H. Rogers, charges the defendants maliciously worked a conspiracy resulting in his discharge from the oil millionaire's employ.

Why Fat Men Stay Fat

"The trouble with me, and I guess this applies to 99% of the men who are putting on weight, I didn't have the energy or "pep" to keep it off. Lost all interest in my healthy activity and just lazed around accumulating the old pounds until I got that "Kruschen feeling."

Start taking Kruschen Salts — that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do— they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

As a result instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every free moment and letting flabby fat accumulate you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition

Then watch the pounds slideoff! Kruschen Salts are the up-to-date Fountain of Youth. Take one half teaspoonful in a glass of hot or cold water tomorrow morning and every morning— and if they don't change your whole idea about reducing, go back and get the small price you paid for them. Get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts—lasts 4 weeks—at Hamilton & Ryan's or any progressive druggist anywhere in the world.

It's the Little Daily Dose that does it.

HIGH TOSSERS TO MARYSVILLE

Red and Black Wallop Modern Woodmen In Practice Tilt--Marysville Fast

Coach J. M. Guthries' High school quintet defeated the Modern Woodmen Wednesday evening by a score of 34 to 12, in a practice tilt. Wilson and Davis chalked up 10 points each for the Tigers, with Russell running close second with eight points. Smith starred for the Woodmen, by scoring seven points.

The Red and Black bucket shooters took an early lead and held it throughout the entire contest. The Woodmen found the Tiger defense solid, and not once in the game was a point scored by the Woodmen after the dedefense was set. Wilson's points were scored by long shots, while Davis and Russell scored theirs by both long and short shots.

Friday the Circleville tossers will jourey to Marysvile to meet Coach Kingman's quintet led by Capt. Lee McMahon. This game will be played at the State Armory. The Marysville squad has had but little practice, all of the players being on the football squad, which played its last game Thanksgiving day. McMahon is the only regular from last season.

The Circleville cage machine is clicking properly and all of the boys are in great shape.

Every one is looking forward to this game, due to the fact that the Circleville lads are determined to even up things for a previous defeat in football.

LANCASTER MAN CALLS IT A "WONDER REMEDY"—A KIDNEY AFFLICTION

Mr. Edward Pfadt, 126 Zane Avenue, Lancaster, is another LIFE LONG resident of this vicinity to endorse Hoyt's Compound PUBLICLY. He states:

"My kidneys have been in a terribly deranged condition for a long time and sharp cutting pains would shoot across my back," said Mr. Pfadt "Night rising was a common ailment to me and I was troubled with constipation too and always had to be taking the strongest of PHYSICS in order to get temporary relief from this bowel affliction. It seemed that I just couldn't get to feeling right no matter how much medicine I took and finally my work grew to be a great burden to me and I made up my mind to try Hoyt's in one last effort to regain my health. It proved successful for I had hardly taken one b ottle when I noticed a difference and now my general physical condition is much improved and I am enjoying the best health of recent years. I am sure that anyone who gives Hoyt's fair trial will be rewarded with new and better health."

GARDEN SHOULD BE WORTH $300 YEAR

Planning it is Important Phase Of Home Management, Says O. S. U. Men

Each of the more than a quarter of a million farm gardens in Ohio could be made to produce more than $300 worth of vegetables each season, assert the extension specialist in vegetable gardening of the Ohio State university. The specialists point out that the farm garden produces vegetables for immediate consumption, and also for storage and for canning. One of the most important advantages of such a garden, however, is the fact that it will yield vegetables for immediate use. at the time when they are at their best

Planning the garden is a most important phase of its management, say the specialist. Knowledge of the crops which can be produced in the garden, and of the particular needs and tastes of the family which will consume the garden produce, are necessary in making the plan.

One-fifth of an acre, properly planned and managed, will supply the needs of the average farm family, say the specialists. They suggest that the garden be arranged in straight rows running north and south, and far enough apart to permit the use of a horse-drawn cultivator. Each plant in a north and south row receives the maximum of sunlight.

The rows should be arranged in the order of the dates of their planting so that on the maturing of an early season crop it may be replaced with another crop, and the entire garden kept in production throughout the season

"Trees" and "Shrubs".

A positive distinction cannot always be made between trees and shrubs. Botanists say that a tree differs from a shrub in having its lowest branches at a greater height from the ground, the branches of a shrub proceeding directly from the ground without a supporting stem. Many people use the word "shrub" in the sense of any bush.

PROUD to show it

Really, you can't blame her. Who wouldn't drag her friends out into the kitchen to show off her new General Electric Refrigerator? There it stands, gleaming white, strong as a safe, incredibly quiet.

For a gift that gives all-year usefulness, that makes every-day tasks lighter, that safeguards health, the General Electric is really ideal. It makes a generous supply of ice cubes and freezes those luscious desserts which every hostess enjoys serving.

When you buy a General Electric you are choosing the one and only electric refrigerator which has an all-steel cabinet. And all the mechanism is hermetically sealed in a steel casing; mounted on top . . . out of the way, dust-proof, never needs oiling . . . . leaving the greatest cabinet area for food storage. It has an accessible freezing regulator which allows you to control freezing-speeds. It causes no radio interference.

For a record of performance, can any other refrigerator equal this . . . . 350,000 in use and no owner has spent a single dollar for repairs or service? When you are deciding on the gift that will best serve the whole family, consider the sound value which the General Electric Refrigerator offers and remember that spaced payments can readily be arranged.

If you like really good music tune in on the General Electric Hour broadcast every Saturday evening.

GARDEN SHOULD BE WORTH $300 YEAR

Planning it is Important Phase Of Home Management, Says O. S. U. Men

Each of the more than a quarter of a million farm gardens in Ohio could be made to produce more than $300 worth of vegetables each season, assert the extension specialist in vegetable gardening of the Ohio State university. The specialists point out that the farm garden produces vegetables for immediate consumption, and also for storage and for canning. One of the most important advantages of such a garden, however, is the fact that it will yield vegetables for immediate use, at the time when they are at their best.

Planning the garden is a most important phase of its management, say the specialist. Knowledge of the crops which can be produced in the garden, and of the particular needs and tastes of the family which will consume the garden produce, are necessary in making the plan.

One-fifth of an acre, properly planned and managed, will supply the needs of the average farm family, say the specialists. They suggest that the garden be arranged in straight rows running north and south, and far enough apart to permit the use of a horse-drawn cultivator. Each plant in a north and south row receives the maximum of sunlight.

The rows should be arranged in the order of the dates of their planting so that on the maturing of an early season crop it may be replaced with another crop, and the entire garden kept in production throughout the season.
